

Acholi people say good-bye to S. Pat

Left: Girls gift her with homemade loaf of bread.
Below: S. Martha presents gift to S. Pat.

S. Pat enjoys being with her students.

S. Pat thanks those who came to wish her well.

On a recent visit, S. Elizabeth Brown and S. Susan Hames present gift of a candle to Archbishop Odama of Gulu.

Pat Receives New Name

Another gift, quite special to Pat, was a piece of paper on which was typed a message explaining the Acholi name the faculty had given to her: "Because of your free integration with us, regardless of age, sex, race, status, etc., we have decided to honor you with the name Adyero. The name which is rarely and clearly given out by Luo community especially by Acholi tribe because of its distinct and excellent connotation (one who has prioritized, sacrificed his/her time, items, life etc in doing something for the benefit of the dear ones). We shall truly and sincerely miss you having left, but what you have done to us, left behind with us will continuously remind and make us imagine you at all times."